

Risky Business Working with Compulsive and Self-Endangering Behaviors in Trauma Survivors

Presented by

John Briere, Ph.D.

Survivors of trauma and early attachment disturbance are at elevated risk of a variety of compulsive and self-endangering behaviors, ranging from suicidality and self-injury to substance abuse, indiscriminate sexual activities, and binge eating. Dr. Briere presents an innovative, integrated approach to self-endangering behavior, the Reactive Avoidance model (RAm). Calling on new research on memory reconsolidation, implicit processing, and revisions to habituation theory, this treatment system directly targets the memory/dysregulation dynamic, with interventions such as emotional regulation training; mindfulness, metacognitive awareness, and emotion surfing procedures; ReGAINing; implicit memory processing; in vivo treatment of implicit memory activations; and harm reduction. A new treatment component, trigger management, increases client autonomy, resilience, and problem-solving. Approaches to three risky behaviors will be presented in detail: self-injury, risky sexual behavior, and bingeing and purging. J&K will provide participants with newly developed worksheets and assessment instruments that organize and inform the treatment process.

AGENDA

Self-Endangering Behavior (1:37:05)

- Borderline personality disorder, impulse control disorder(s), and behavioral addictions
- Another (evidence-based) view: The Reactive Avoidance model (RAm)

An overview & Assessing Distress Reduction Behavior (DRB) in context (1:29:25)

- Self-injury, risky sexual behavior, bingeing and purging, reactive aggression
- Non-DRBs that involve maladaptive coping
- Immediate risks and comorbidities
- New assessment tools

Safety, Stabilization, and Harm Reduction (1:34:02)

- Environmental safety and stability
- Safety from self-harm
- Reducing the destabilizing effects of triggered states
- Harm reduction strategies

Acceptance and Mindfulness (1:28:03)

- Settling, metacognitive awareness, and letting go
- Urge and emotion surfing
- Mindfulness applications for DRBs
- A hybrid approach

Trigger management (1:39:49)

- Psychoeducation on triggers
- Identification: Direct and indirect
- Trigger linkage
- Intervening in triggered states

ReGAINing for DRBs (1:18:51)

- Recognize
- Ground
- Allow
- Investigate
- Non-identify

Processing trauma-related and attachment-related memories (1:28:15)

- Emotional processing
- Implications of new reconsolidation research
- Multiple memory targets: Sequential processing
- Processing explicit versus implicit memories
- Steps of processing

Intervening in three forms of compensatory avoidance

- Self-injury (1:35:24)
- Risky sexual behavior
- Food bingeing and purging

Objectives— Participants will be able to:

- Describe the Reactive Avoidance model (RAm)
- List three different distress reduction behaviors
- Outline the central components of trigger management
- Discuss the limitations of classic prolonged exposure and habituation
- Describe two ways in which implicit processing occurs in RAm-based therapy
